VICE RAN RAMPANT

Wrongdoers Kept
the Police
Busy.

Judge Wilcox will be confronted this morning by a calendar at once lengthy and interesting. Saturday night, in police circles, was, in the parlance of the curbstone, a hummer, and the spirits of violence, intemperance and unprobability stalked through the streets, and many fell victims to the snare of their disastrous eyes.

One of the first arrivals on Saturday at the gilded cage was Albert Peyser, formerly assistant haberdasher at a local garmentry. He was arrested at Hauulu, and inspected the view from the Pali at the expense of the Territory. Peyser is charged with gross cheat. He is alleged to have negotiated "phony" cheques. The orders were signed by Sing High & Co. for $21.75, and by Kong Sang Yuen for $30; both were drawn on Bishop & Co. The bank knows of no such firm as Sing High & Co., and Sing High, a laundryman, denies any knowledge of the cheques.
The other firm repudiates the cheque, and pronounces it a forgery. Peyser presented the latter cheque to the clerk at the Moana Hotel.

The Sing High cheque was given to Harry Klemme, and is endorsed by him and J. W. Podmore.

Another victim is Viggo Jacobsen, the pen artist, who cashed a cheque of Peyser's on Bishop & Co., bearing Peyser's signature, for $20. Jacobsen does not wish to say much about it, but it would seem that Peyser in this instance was absolutely heartless.

Peyser has been in the Islands at different times for many years past.
His relations reside in San Francisco.
Of late he has been selling clothing on commission.

J. Kelly, S. C. Henry and a Mr. Martin were pulled in for fighting one with another in a public place, to wit, King street.

Punchbowl furnished a specimen for the Merchant street menagerie in the person of D. Haglin. Officer McCormick, of the local horse-guards, was giving shipping instructions about a common drunk whom his horse had stumbled over, when Haglin approached him from the rear and smote him grievously on the cranium with a chunk of rock of the earlier lavate formation. Assault on an officer is the charge.

Eokepa, a South Sea Islander, had a dispute with a fellow-countryman in Magoon's long house on Queen street on Saturday night, and backed up his argument with a jackknife, which he wielded so freely that his victim was badly cut about the head and neck, and the scene of the conflict resembled a miniature shambling.

The police interrupted a ball game at Palama yesterday, and arrested Geo.
Nichols, Charles Esser, H. Ah Leong, W. Kaeo and Alex McCandless on a charge of violating the Sunday law. It is understood the boys were practicing together with a view to challenging the nine of the Finest to play them for a keg of beer.

Rumor has it that news of the raid drifted down to Moanalua, where the Hoot Mons were "golfing" for dear life, and that the Scots packed up their cleeks and mashies and conducted a masterly retreat.

Joe Fonseca was arrested on the complaint of his wife, who says that, while joyous with liquor, her husband fired several revolver shots at her. The pair live in the wilds of Kalihi. The woman is the only witness of the alleged shooting, and late last night no specific charge had been preferred against the man.

The perennial Sweet Emalia and suite were gathered in from the swiftly on the usual charge of having celebrated heartily but withal indis-creetly.

The residue of the overnight boarders at the Territorial House included sixteen gambling Pakes, a couple of furious drivers, a son of sunny Tennessee, held for investigation, and L.
Oliver, one of Paine's car men, who is charged with embezzlement.

THE SENATE.

It Adopts the Fire Claim Resolution and Acts Upon the Journal.

The Senate held a short session Saturday morning, not remaining in business meeting more than a quarter-hour.
The Achi resolution, asking Congress to provide for the payment of the fire claims, was passed and the clerk was instructed to forward the resolution to the House at once. The following resolution, introduced by Senator J. T.
Brown, was passed:

Resolved, That the clerk of the Senate be and he hereby is directed to furnish to the Secretary of the Territory, for transmission to Washington as required by the Organic act, five copies of the journal of this session, printed and bound; that when said journal is completed he shall cause to be forwarded (gratis) to their respective addresses the copies of said journal heretofore provided to be furnished to the members of the Senate, and that he be allowed thirty days after the expiration of the present session in which to comply with this resolution and also to complete all the work of his office.

LOWER COURT SUSTAINED.

On Saturday In Two of the Decisions Recently Appealed.

The Supreme Court on Saturday confirmed two decisions which came up from the lower court recently.

The court held that Kaikika, an idiot, who had deeded a piece of land for $100 to one Hapa, not being of sound mind, was consequently unable to execute such an instrument. The land is worth from $750 to $1,000. Samuel Keka appeared as the complainant in the interests of Kaikika.

In the case of Kealoa and Kuklea vs. Namokueono Ewilkko, the opinion of the lower court that it was not proven that undue influence had been used in obtaining possession of a certain piece of Honolulu property, was also conceded in.
